This course is designed to develop the teacher candidate's ability to use a variety of instructional approaches as needed to support multiple ways for P-12 students to access knowledge, represent knowledge, and demonstrate the attainment of academic goals and competencies. Candidates will demonstrate an understanding of "the learner and the learning." This course will help the teacher candidate meet student differences ad needs in a sensitive and reflective manner by discussing issues related to diverse classrooms. This course meets in an accelerated term.

Prerequisite: EDU 150 and SE 230
Students will have the opportunity to reflect upon best practices in instructional design and the factors that impact teacher effectiveness in diverse classroom settings. Students will examine the relationship between common core standards, goals, objectives, instruction, and assessment. Students will design lesson plans that reflect this relationship as well as sensitivity to the needs of all learners. This course provides students with clinical field experience to engage in experiential learning. Ten-hour field experience required.

Students will develop a model for classroom teaching and

Corequisites: EDU 440

This class emphasizes the importance of instruction in reading, writing, speaking, listening, and language as a shared responsibility within a school. Strategies that support students in their abilities to comprehend informational text independently in a variety of content areas are reinforced.

Prerequisite: PSY 213

This course focuses on the psychological foundations of education. How people learn is a foundational understanding for teaching. Principles of learning that describe what factors are vital, and theories of learning that describe why the factors are important will guide the course instruction. Physiological underpinnings in brain-based teaching are examined. Ten hours of focused observation at an assigned local school are required.

(2015). Director for The Union EDGE Program. B.S., Union University; M.S., University of Memphis; Ed.D., University of Memphis.

(2019). Assistant Director for The Union EDGE Program. B.A., Union University; M.Ed., Grand Canyon University

The Union EDGE is a comprehensive transition program for highly motivated young adults who have a documented intellectual and/or developmental disability (IDD). This is a two-year certificate program for students ages 18-26 who have completed high school. The Union EDGE–Employment training, Daily living skills, Godly focus, Educational enrichment–is a residential or non-residential program designed to aid in career development and employment skills. Students will audit college courses, participate in life skills classes, work in on-campus and off-campus internships, and experience the full range of college life. Exiting students will receive certificates of completion.

The Union EDGE provides a holistic, post-secondary education for individuals with intellectual or developmental disabilities, encouraging increased independent skills that lead to a better quality of life and aligning with Union's mission of providing "Christ-centered education that promotes excellence and character development in service to Church and society."

Applications for Fall enrollment must be received by May 1 each year. To be considered complete, an application must be signed and accompanied by the $50 application fee. Once an application has been received and reviewed, the applicant may be contacted to set up an on-campus interview.

Acceptable candidates must be between the ages of 18-26, possess a documented Intellectual/Developmental Disability (IDD), and be a high school graduate. In addition, applicants must submit the following to the EDGE program office:

General Student Service Fee (12 hrs. or more) $615
Registration/Orientation Fee. $150

Union EDGE students may seek the STEP UP scholarship provided by lottery funds (equivalent to the Hope Scholarship). To be licensed to teach in the State of Tennessee, prospective teachers must earn a bachelor's degree with a major in an academic field and meet specific competencies needed in the teaching profession.

Research reports that more extensive clinical experience better prepares teachers for the P–12 classrooms of today. Therefore, students will complete a year-long internship from fall through spring semesters of the senior year in one classroom appropriate to the grade range of the license. Internship I will it is strongly recommended that the student repeat courses that caused the GPA to fall below the minimum required. When the GPA is at or above the minimum, the student will be submitted for readmission to the EPP.

As is required by national standards and by the Tennessee State Department of Education guidelines, early field experiences are a vital part of the EPP at Union. The purpose of these early field experiences is to introduce the prospective teacher to a variety of school settings, learners, and routine activities. The knowledge and skills introduced in course work will be refined in the early field experiences.

Proof of professional liability insurance is required of all students enrolled in courses with field experiences, including the year-long internship. This expense is the responsibility of the student. Options for this coverage include, but are not limited to, membership in Student Tennessee Education Association, Christian Educators' Association International, or Professional Educators of Tennessee. Liability insurance is also available through Union University. Information about each of these options is available through the Office of Educator Preparation Program. The student is responsible for transportation to and from field experience.

The School of Education is charged with the responsibility to follow the established policies for admission to and completion of the EPP. The EPPC, which includes representatives of the faculty from across the University, is the EPP coordinating and policy-making body for the unit and is responsible for assuring that the established policies are followed. If the student feels that established policy or practice is not being followed, the EPPC should be contacted. The EPPC is also the appeals committee for the EPP. All appeals for variance from established policy and practice should be presented in writing to the Dean of the College of Education and Human Studies. The Dean will consider whether the appeal may, within established policy, be granted. If the appeal has been denied by the Dean, the student may choose to direct the appeal to the EPPC. The student should contact the chairman of the EPPC and present the appeal in writing. After the EPPC has considered the appeal, the student will be notified in writing of the committee's determination.

Student outcomes are measured through the Praxis II specialty area tests and edTPA. Praxis tests measure content knowledge, and edTPA is a performance assessment of the candidate's ability to teach all students. Praxis tests are taken prior to and toward the end of Internship I, and edTPA is submitted in the spring of Internship II.

In addition to tuition, a fee will be charged all students engaged in the internship. This is used to meet part of the expenses of the mentor stipend and travel expenses incurred by the University coach. A materials fee is also charged for the internship and appropriate courses throughout the curriculum and to cover costs directly related to the course or laboratory. Additional expenses include a background check, and liability insurance each year. Current materials and experience fees are indicated in the "Financial Information" section of the Catalogue.
